Information Provided by Member Institutions – Current as of October 2020

DEADLINE TO SUBMIT MARKS FOR ONLINE COURSES

Capilano University: Online courses are treated like any other course. For early registration, interim grades needed in late May, final grades for final admission review needed early August.

Emily Carr University of Art + Design: Interim marks - Jan 15th. Final marks - Aug 15th

Kwantlen Polytechnic University: Gets final ministry transcripts by the end of July; then allows approx. 2 weeks in which to submit supplemental transcripts, so this would be mid-August.

SFU: Students must complete online courses by June 30th, along with the rest of their classes.

Thompson Rivers University: For online courses, will accept a letter from the institution stating that the course is currently in progress (preferably with an interim grade if possible). For non-competitive programs (BA, BSc, BBA, BCS, BFA) only require transcript once course is complete.

UBC: If a student wants the course to be included in the calculation of their admissions average, it needs to be completed by February 1. If a student is simply completing the course for prerequisite purposes, it can be completed by June 30. These deadlines are subject to change as new developments arise surrounding the current impacts of COVID-19.

University of the Fraser Valley: We need to know about any online courses ASAP, but we need to know the final grades before the first day of class.

UVIC: Students applying for September 2021 must complete online courses by May 31, 2021.

College of the Rockies: Final Gr. 12 marks [in-class or online] – final official transcripts must be submitted by the end of July for all programs other than nursing.

Langara College: For high school grades, we will be doing the TRAX download in mid-May.

Northern Lights College: Typically, we ask Grade 12 students to submit their final grades to us two weeks before their program starts. There are some exceptions for dual credit.

Okanagan College: For all programs [except Nursing] that start in September, all secondary school courses must be completed by June 30 and grades received by late July/early August.

UNBC: Interim Grades: must be provided before an admission decision can be granted. Final Grades: Nursing: April 15; all other programs: August 15.
